To get the job done, your workers need access to business-critical applications out in the field. They want a business device that is every bit as small, sleek and as easy to use as their own personal smartphones. But today's smartphones fall far short of the feature set you need in your business. Introducing the TC55 — the pocket-sized all touch computer that has it all. Smartphone ergonomics and good looks. Business durability. And all the business functionality your workers need to work smarter — and better serve your customers. The TC55. Built for the enterprise, designed for your workers
